Course Description:

This course has a target audience of secondary teachers meeting the Ecology requirement for the Biological Science, Integrated Science and Environmental Science endorsements, but includes the content for 3rd thru 5th grade teachers, as well. In addition to Utah Science Core curriculum. To provide opportunities for knowledge acquisition and generalization, this course emphasizes science process skill development at every stage. Participants work individually and in groups to learn new content by collecting and analyzing data – actually performing experiments and communicating the results. After the field experience, participants return to their schools with the assignment to apply the methods/model learned through Brian Head field ecology in their own classroom.
